• Respondents were asked to prioritize them – or just choose the one they considered as the most important human right. The same logic applies for the next question about the priorities.

If we only take into consideration the results of the 'human rights category chosen as the most important one', the order of importance reads as follows:

No. 1	Freedoms
No. 2	Equality
No. 3	Dignity
No. 4	Justice
No. 5	Citizens' rights
No. 6	Solidarity

If we only take into consideration the results of the 'priority chosen as the most important one', the order of importance reads as follows:

No. 1	Justice & Fundamental Rights
No. 2	Migration
No. 3	Jobs, growths & investments
No. 4	Internal Market
No. 5	Economic and Monetary Union
No. 6	Democratic Change
No. 7	Digital Single Market
No. 8	Stronger Global Actor
No. 9	Energy Union and Climate
No. 10	EU-US Free Trade Agreement
